

Women's Legacy Award HONORING AGGIE WOMEN

Liz Rigney '79

Over the years Liz has mentored many young women particularly those in Greek Organizations from helping them to grow as thoughtful, compassionate women to supporting them in times of need.

Liz has been a remarkable role model and mentor for numerous Texas Aggie Women – demonstrating a dedication to helping others who are less fortunate. And she had made a “career” of volunteerism.

Elizabeth (Liz) Winfield Rigney, Class of '79, is a shining example of the principles that every member of the Women Former Students' Network values: Excellence, Integrity, Leadership, Loyalty, Respect and Selfless Service. Since graduating from Texas A&M and raising two children, including Nathan Rigney '06, she has been a devoted community servant.

Her many charitable activities demonstrate her commitment to Selfless Service. She has volunteered and provided leadership to over 18 organizations, including as incoming Chairman of the Board and current Co-Chair of the $8 million capital campaign of Camp for All- a non-profit barrier free camp for children and adults with special needs; as the third time Chairman of the Houston Theta Charity Antiques Show – a nationally recognized fundraising event and as President and board member of Holly Hall Christian Retirement Community – a non-profit retirement independent, assisted & healthcare organization.

Liz has served as President or Board member of many other organizations. The excellence she has shown is exemplified by her numerous awards – including, among others, Volunteer of the Year at Camp for All and Theta of the Year and recently as one of Channel 13th Women of Distinction. She has also served on the Bryan/College Station House Corporation Board for the Kappa Alpha Theta Chapter at Texas A&M University.

She has been an inspiration to the young Aggie Women who have been fortunate to work with her while as students and as graduates.
